

The NJ "do not call" should remain. While not perfect, and some unwanted calls still interrupt meals and family time, it is decidedly better. One problem is that once you have had any association with a caller they may call soliciting in the future --
- this will continue to build a list of those allowed to call any individual.